

LIGHTNING KILLS TWO MEN

FATHER AND SON KILLED BY BOLT WHILE FISHING.

Tragedy Happened Along Conewago Creek During Storm of Saturday Evening.

John A. King and Lloyd M. King of York, father and son, were instantly killed by a bolt of lightning last Saturday afternoon while fishing at Waldheim, this county. The bolt flashed over the two men while a younger son, Ivan King, was standing on the opposite side of the dam watching them get ready to go to a nearby mill where the father had just called to him to go for protection from the threatening storm. The party left Saturday morning for Waldheim where the day was spent in fishing. They had just about finished the day's sport when the heavy storm broke over the eastern section of this county about 5 o'clock. Mr. King's voice had no more than died away when the flash came, and Ivan, to whom he had just spoken, saw his brother drop to the ground, and a moment later the father fell across his body.

While the others started to get around the dam to go to the other side, Ivan plunged into the water and swam to the opposite shore. When he got there both father and brother were dead. Assistance was summoned and Dr. Swab of Hampton, brought to the scene. The men were pronounced dead.

LET US HOPE

CHEER UP—The wizard of electricity, Thomas A. Edison on July 14 announced "We now have ALL the rebellious elements under control." It is a good guess that the wizard has in hand something worth while. Keep your eye on him.

A GOOD GOING IT BLIND—Minority Leader Mann, who has patriotically supported President Wilson again and again, a few days ago threw his influence in favor of a lump appropriation of $640,000,000 for aviation saying: "In aviation we have an unknown quantity. No one knows just how effective aerial warfare may be. We are taking our chances with a 'pig in a poke,' and I believe that at this time we can afford to expend an immense sum of money in the realm of the air. If we succeed, we will strike demoralization and perhaps foment revolution in Germany. I say we can afford to take a chance whatever the cost, and for my part, I am willing to pass the bill without saying a word."

A PEACE VISION—David J. Lewis the Maryland Congressman who gave the country the Parcel Post System, a few days ago said: "When the delegates sit around the peace council table, the figure that will dominate the discussions will be President Wilson. Not even Lloyd George will be his superior. Mr. Wilson's knowledge is profound and his judgment sagacious. The formation of the Federal Government from thirteen independent nations is an example of the kind of world state that must be formed."

—Red Cross Activities.

The campaign for Red Cross members is not over. The county seat chapter and the fourteen branches organized are at work for members and have not finished that work. As long as there is a man or woman in the county who can join and has not done so the good work could be appropriately kept up. At last reports Gettysburg had 17 new members, Abbotstown 13 more, McSherrystown 12 more, and the total membership instead of 2203 as last reported is 2235, and when reports are turned in from all districts, several not having reported since organization, the total will likely go over 2500. Keep up the good work.

There must be many people living in the county who want to be members and could not go to any of the branch organizing meetings. Such persons could find in their names as members at the nearest branch. It is likely several sections will want branch organizations before that work can be called completed.

Red Cross auction bridge is one of the proposed pastimes being planned in Gettysburg, at 50 cents a head.

Arrangements have recently been made for the Gettysburg Red Cross Chapter to take up the branch work known as the Civilian Relief Work, caring for the wants as they may be experienced of all dependents of local soldiers and sailors.

Dr. J. McCrea Dickson and Dr. J. P. Dalbey have delivered a course of ten lectures to two classes in First Aid Work and examination of these classes have been going on during the past week. Dr. Dalbey examining Dr. Dickson's class and Dr. Crist examining Dr. Dalbey's class.

Another box now ready for shipment has been packed at the workshop of the Parish House. This contains 61 dozen muslin bandages, 5 dozen flannel bandages, 8 1/2 dozen crinoline bandages, 7 dozen head bandages, 3 dozen T bandages, 13 dozen triangular bandages or slings, 6 abdominal bandages, 4 dozen basswood splints.

The Littlestown and New Oxford branches have each prepared a box containing the following: 64 muslin bandages, 4 dozen crinoline bandages, 5 dozen flannel bandages, 5 dozen head bandages, 3 dozen T bandages, 5 dozen triangular bandages or slings, 3 dozen abdominal bandages, 4 dozen basswood splints.

All these boxes after they have been inspected and accepted by the Gettysburg Chapter are sent to the Bush Terminal, New York, from where they are forwarded directly to France without being opened. Other boxes will be sent by the local chapter next week.

Ehlers—Rudisill.—The wedding of Miss Iva L. Rudisill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Rudisill, of Hanover, and the Rev. Jacob H. Ehlers of Harrisburg took place Wednesday in St. Matthew's Lutheran Church. The Rev. Ehlers is the State Intercollegiate Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. for Pennsylvania. Miss Rudisill was formerly an instructor in the Hanover High School.

Halm—Elder.—An announcement is made of the marriage of Prof. Frederick J. Halm and Miss Hazel Regina Elder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Elder, both of Emmitsburg. The ceremony was performed by the pastor of St. Stephen's Catholic Church, of Pittsburgh, on Thursday, July 3. For the present Prof. and Mrs. Halm will reside in Pittsburgh. Animals in Fire.

Most animals are afraid of fire and will flee from it in terror. To others there is a fascination about a flame, and they will walk into it even though tortured by the heat.

A horse in a burning stable goes mad with fear, but a dog is as cool in a fire as at any time. He keeps his nose down to the floor, where the air is purest, and sets himself calmly to finding his way out. Cats in fire cry piteously. They hide their faces from the light and crouch in corners. When their rescuer lifts them they are, as a rule, quite docile and subdued, never biting or scratching.

Birds seem to be hypnotized by fire and keep perfectly still. Even the loquacious parrot in a fire has nothing to say. Cats, like dogs, do not show alarm. They are easy to lead forth and often find their way out of themselves.—London Answers.

Evolution of the Carrot.

Even the most sophisticated professional tiller of the soil must be surprised that the once despised carrot, used principally as food for stock, is now among the vegetables recommended by government and other experts as an important human food product. Under the modern practice of food analysis for the purpose of determining energy values it is found that this humble bird of field and garden ranks high. Dieticians have also discovered that, when properly cooked, it is not only valuable as a food adjunct, but is of extremely delicate flavor.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Antiquity of the Bracelet.

Few wearers of bracelets know that they were once used to distinguish the insane. Before lunatics were confined to asylums they wore an armband for distinction. Bracelets for the arms and anklets for the legs—so frequently mentioned as ornaments in the Bible—are still commonly worn by eastern married women of all ranks. They were looked upon as a capital means of investing money, as they could not be taken for debts of the husband.

Alpha and Omega.

In three places, in the book of Revelation, Alpha, the first letter of the Greek alphabet, and Omega, the last, are referred to in the phrase, "I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end." Both Greeks and Hebrews employed the letters of the alphabet as numerals.

There are three kinds of men in the world—those (the best) who make jokes, those who can enjoy jokes and those (the worst kind) who attempt to explain jokes.—G. K. Chesterton.

Linen Breeches.

Linen breeches were worn by men in 1801 B. C. They also at that period were embroidered coats, besides bonnets "for glory and for beauty."

Moving Picture Censors.

The national board of review of motion pictures is made up entirely of unpaid workers, including a general committee of thirty-five members, self-perpetuating, from which is selected an executive committee, which, in turn, elects members of the review committee. This latter committee is divided into sections, which attend from twenty-five to thirty picture reviews weekly. The general committee is a court of appeal for any pictures which may be held for further consideration. It was formed in 1909 and has always been gladly recognized by the manufacturers, exhibitors and producers. Last year it caused to be eliminated 48,900 feet of objectionable films. Among those on the general committee are: P. F. Jerome, business bureau of the international committee of Y. M. C. A.; Orlando P. Lewis, general secretary of Prison Association of New York; Dr. Charles S. Macfarland, general secretary of Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.—Film Fun.

Floating Drydocks.

Our largest floating dock is the Dewey, at the Olongapo naval station, in the Philippine Islands. Floating drydocks are so arranged as to lift a big battleship bodily from the water. When it is desired to dock a vessel the floating dock is sunk by admitting water to it, and the ship is floated over it. When the ship is in the proper place over the dock the water is pumped out, and it rises, lifting the ship with it. When it is desired to refloat the ship the dock is sunk again by admitting water, and the ship is hauled off. There are side walls to the dock which remain partly above water. In these are located the pumping machinery, and on them the docking gangs work. The Dewey is in three sections, of which the two small end sections lift the large central section and are themselves lifted by it.

Goethals Saw the Point.

Shortly after our war with Germany was started R. J. McBride of Beaumont was awarded a big contract for the construction of wooden ships for our government. The fact that McBride's firm had never engaged in shipbuilding promised to militate against his getting a contract, and the lack of practical experience was mentioned during his conference with General Goethals.

"Your firm has never constructed ships," said the general. "No, sir." "Well?" pressed the government's representative. "General, you built the Panama canal," replied McBride. "So they say," was the answer. "Did you ever build a canal before?" General Goethals saw the point.—Dallas News.

Carnations and Rats.

Not long ago the basement of a department store in San Diego, Cal., received a sudden influx of rats. Traps, however baited, tempted but few, and other methods of riddance tried seemed of little avail. About this time the janitor noticed that old carnations thrown into the rubbish disappeared overnight. He put two and two together and began baiting traps with carnations. Every rat added to the fatalities in the rodent kingdom.

The city health department then took it up and has been achieving very satisfactory results therefrom. The odor of the flower seems to attract rats from some considerable distance, the variation of color apparently making no difference.—American City.

Menin's Bid For Fame.

"It is barely possible that had there been no Menin there might have been no world war, for it was at the siege of this little Belgian city in 1794 that the Hanoverian army officer, Scharnhorst, won his first distinction. Subsequently he wrote a military paper on the escape of the Menin garrison, and this brought him to the attention of staff officers of various German states, and he was offered several commissions. He accepted service under the king of Prussia, and from this time dates the beginning of activities that eventually resulted in the establishment of the Prussian military system, which was the genesis of the holocaust of nations. It was Scharnhorst the hero of Menin, who induced his sovereign to put aside the Prussian professional long service army which had been shattered at the battle of Jena and to inaugurate the policy of universal service. This was not ordered, however, until after the originalator's death from a wound inflicted at the battle of Lutzen in 1813.—National Geographic Society Bulletin.

Possibilities of Bad Verse.

No one has yet written any adequate appreciation of the possibilities of bad verse—the verse, I mean, that is composed at the crises of life, on the mountain tops of exultation and in the joyless valleys, by persons unskilled and ordinarily unpoetic: the verse that is hidden away in vases and barren drawers, never to be shown and always produced in some moment of vanity. Only a true poet could write a just appreciation of bad verse, and from his pen the words come too much tainted with the implication of irony. The quality of bad verse is not straitened. It is rewarded with no check, it is a brave denuding of reality, a prayer that is its own answer. It is to use Maeterlinck's phrase, "a making or invoking of wings" by creatures that creep on their bellies.—New Republic.

Famous Men's Favorite Hymns.

Favorite hymns of famous men make an interesting catalogue. Gladstone's special choice was "Praise to the Holiest in the Height," and it was sung at his funeral. Tennyson's favorite was Heber's "Holy, Holy, Holy." One of Ruskin's preferences was "Jesus, Here From Sin Deliver," upon which he preached a sermon to some 300 school children, his guests one afternoon at Brantwood. Matthew Arnold's choice was "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross" (Watt's masterpiece), the third verse of which M. A. was overheard reciting to himself only an hour before his quite unexpected fatal seizure. And Henry Ward Beecher declared, "I would rather have written 'Jesus, Lover of My Soul' than have the fame of all the kings that ever sat on the earth."—London Standard.

How the Camera Man Fools Them.

The life of the camera man who takes the weekly news motion pictures is not always one of glory. When Mrs. Vanderrich, for instance, asks him to take a picture of her poodle when he wants permission to take pictures of her yacht, he finds himself between two fires, notes the Popular Science Monthly. Either he must waste some precious film on the dog or he must refuse and be shot the quickest way back. One wise camera man, however, improvised a false camera crank for such occasions. The crank is made loosely on the shaft of the film gear in the camera. When the people are going through his artifice of turning a crank on the shaft, and a foot of film is exposed, although the appearance of a picture is being made.

FOOD AND WAR

Shortage in Raw Materials Gives Rise to Alarm Among Manufacturing Interests—America Must Apply Every Resource to Meet World's Demand for Food—Labor Saving Machines and Man Power on the Farms Vital Factors in Economic Crisis—Appeal for Government Action.

Government action ensuring the farmers of America ample supplies of farm implements and competent farm labor is virtually necessary to this country's future participation in the war, declare the manufacturers of farming tools and machinery in the United States. This action must be immediate and radical, they say, or in 1918 the United States will fail to produce foodstuffs necessary to feed the civil population of our allies and to keep the allied armies in fighting trim.

This declaration is made in a public statement by the National Implement and Vehicle Association, whose members manufacture most of the farming implements used in and exported from the United States. It is the Association's answer to an anxious inquiry about reports of a prospective implement shortage addressed to it in behalf of the country's farming interests by ex-Governor W. D. Hoard of Wisconsin, one of the leaders of American agriculture and publisher of Hoard's Dairyman. The statement, which is signed by Charles S. Brantingham, Chairman of the Association's Executive Committee, says:

Unless prompt action is taken by the Government, our country will make the same mistakes that have resulted in compelling our allies to appeal to us to save them from famine. Unless we protect the production of labor-saving farm machinery and the supply of skilled farm labor we, too, must soon face a shrinkage of food supplies.

Without such action as is here suggested and urged, the farmers of the United States will not have enough machines or men in 1918 to meet the demands upon them.

"We are now confronted by shortages of raw material and factory labor that will begin to be manifest in shortages of certain lines of farm machinery this fall and will result in serious shortages in many vital lines next year. Stocks on hand in important kinds of tools and machines are smaller than in normal years, because of earlier scarcity of factory labor and a rapidly tightening scarcity of all raw materials.

"Farmers have deferred during the last three years the replacing of old and badly worn tools and machines. Now, confronted by the practical certainty that the war is to continue indefinitely, with attendant assurance of a heavy demand and high prices for all their products, and by an inevitable shortage of farm labor, they cannot put off longer replacements of worn out machines and the additions to equipment necessary to increase acreage and production.

"It is also essential in meeting the demand of the farmers for implements that there shall be preference in transportation for raw materials to the factories and for finished goods from the factories to the farms.

"For the last ten years farm labor has been more and more difficult to secure, and now with an enormous increase in the demand for labor in munitions factories, and the withdrawal of many young men from productive occupations, there is bound to be a shortage of farm labor such as this country has never known. In Kansas alone a vast number of fertile acres on which the wheat crop failed will lie idle this summer, chiefly for lack of labor and partly through lack of machines to replant to corn.

"We regard it as vital to keep on the farms the men now there who know the business, especially the men trained in the use of labor-saving machinery. It would be wasteful and foolish to let them go and afterward try to replace them with unskilled men.

"We seek no advantage for our industry over any other, but we realize and we want the public to realize that without this product and without sufficient labor the farmers of the United States cannot increase or even maintain their production of foodstuffs next year. To avert the calamity that such a condition will surely produce, our industry and the farming industry which it chiefly supports must be put upon the same preferred basis as the making of war munitions, even if other less vital industries suffer thereby for materials and men.

"These are the measures that we declare to be vital to the feeding of this nation and its allies next year:

"1. That the manufacture of farm materials be given equal preference with the manufacture of war munitions as regards supplies of necessary raw materials.

"2. That service to the country in farm machinery factories be considered of equal importance with service in munition making plants, Government or private.

"3. That labor on the farms be considered as of equal importance with the production of war munitions.

"4. That the raw materials for farming machinery and the finished goods be given equal preference by the transportation agencies of the country with munitions of war.

"These measures must be taken immediately to be effective, because the use and demand for farming machinery are seasonal. We must have right now materials and the men to make the farm machinery that the farmer at home and abroad must use this Fall and next Spring. Delay in action will be as disastrous as failure to act at all."

DETAILS REGARDING DRAFT

Regulations Governing the Matter of Exemption or Discharge.

1—Local Boards.—In every county in the United States and for every city of more than 30,000 there are one or more local exemption boards. Each of such boards is in charge of the registration cards of persons registered in the area over which the board has jurisdiction, and has jurisdiction of all claims for exemption, except those based on industrial grounds. Find out what board has your card and where the office of that board is.

2—District Boards.—In every Federal Judicial District there are one or more district boards having appellate jurisdiction over a number of local boards and having original jurisdiction of claims for exemption on industrial grounds. If you intend to make a claim on industrial grounds, including agriculture, learn what district board to apply to.

3—Red Ink Serial Numbers.—Every board has numbered the cards in its jurisdiction with red ink in a series running from 1 to the number representing the total number of cards in its jurisdiction. Lists showing the names of persons in the jurisdiction of each board and the red ink number of each card are open to inspection at the office of each board. Inspect the list and inform yourself of your red ink serial number.

4—Order of Liability.—These red ink numbers are to be drawn by lot to determine the order in which registered persons are to be called by the various local boards. As soon as the drawing is complete lists showing the order in which these red ink numbers are drawn will be published in the press and will be posted at the office of each local board. Go to your local board and find out the order in which you stand for call.

5—Call for Examination.—As soon as quotas are assigned to each State and each board each board will call upon persons whose cards are in its jurisdiction, instructing them to present themselves for examination. This call will be posted at the office of the local board and the papers will be requested to print it. A notice will also be mailed to you, but the posting of the list at the office of the board will be deemed sufficient notice to charge you with the duty of presenting yourself. The law, therefore, makes it your duty to inform yourself when you are called. The mailing is for your convenience, but if the letter never reaches you you cannot make that excuse. Watch the lists at the office of your board and see when you are called for examination.

6—Physical Examination.—You must report for physical examination on the day named in your call.

(a) If you are found physically disqualified the board will give you a certificate which will explain to you what your further duties are.

(b) If you are found physically qualified and file a claim for exemption within seven days after your call you will be given ten days after filing your claim of exemption to file proof in support of your claim of exemption. See paragraph 7, below.

(c) If you are found physically qualified and file no claim for exemption, or if you do not appear for physical examination, your name will be posted to the district board as one who was called for military service and was not exempted or discharged. On the eighth day after call, or within two days thereafter, copies of the list of persons so posted to the district boards will be given to the press with a request for publication, will be posted in a place at the office of the local board accessible to the public view, and notice will be mailed to you at the address on your registration card. Therefore watch the notices posted in the offices of the board about ten days after the day you were called and make arrangements for the prompt receipt of mail.

7—Seven days to file claims of exemptions or discharge (except for industrial or agricultural reasons). Note:

(a) No claim of discharge on account of the industry in which you are engaged can be decided by a local board. (See paragraph 15 below).

(b) Whether you file a claim of exemption, or not, you must present yourself for physical examination on the day named in the notice.

From the day notice that you are called is mailed and posted you have seven days in which you may file a claim of exemption or discharge. The form for filing this claim is simple. If you wish to file such a claim (a) go to the board and get form 116 for exemption or form 121 for discharge. If the board has not the printed forms ask to consult the form pamphlet and copy the form shown there.

(b) Fill out the proper form and file it with the board.

(c) Do this within seven days of the posting and mailing of notice to you to present yourself.

1—That you are an officer, legislative, executive or judicial of the United States, a State or Territory, or the District of Columbia.

2—That you are a regular or duly ordained minister of religion.

3—That you were on May 18, 1917, a student preparing for the ministry in any recognized theological or divinity school.

4—That you are in the military or naval service of the United States.

5—That you are a subject of Germany, whether you have taken out papers or not.

6—That you are a resident alien who has not taken out naturalization papers.

In addition to claims for exemption, claims for discharge may be made on any of the following grounds for discharge by a local board:

1—That you are a county or municipal officer.

2—That you are a custom house clerk.

3—That you are employed by the United States in the transmission of mails.

4—That you are an artificer or workman employed in an armory, arsenal or navy yard of the United States.

These are the only grounds for exemption or discharge by a local board.

Another person can file a claim in your behalf, but must use different forms in filing the claim.

8—Ten Days After Filing Claim to File Proof.—Your claim of exemption or discharge must be filed within seven days of the day in which notice to you that you are called was posted and mailed. But after you have filed your claim for exemption or discharge you have ten days within which to file proof.

The method of proving claims is very simple, but it is rather exact. If you follow the rules given below you will have done what is required of you:

First—Go to the local board and consult the regulations to find out the form number of the affidavits that you must submit for your particular claim.

Second—Ask the board for the blank affidavits that are necessary in presenting your proof if the board has not the forms, ask to consult the pamphlet of forms.

Third—Have the affidavits properly accomplished and return them to the board within the time limit assigned you ten days from the filing of your claim.

Remember:

(a) You must submit your proof in the prescribed form and the board has no authority to exempt or discharge you unless you submit all the affidavits required by regulations.

(b) There will be no argument before the board and no proof other than the prescribed affidavits unless the board calls for other proof, which it will only do in a limited number of cases.

9—When Claims Are Decided.—Every claim for discharge or exemption will be decided by the local board within three days after affidavits have been filed.

10—Certificates of Exemption or Discharge.—If your claim is allowed a certificate of exemption or discharge will be issued to you.

Remember:

(a) This certificate may be recalled at any time.

(b) If it is temporary or conditional it becomes of no effect when the time or the condition named fulfilled.

(c) You have been drawn for military service, and when the condition that has postponed your posting to the colors ceases you may be recalled at any time.

(d) Remember that your case may still be appealed to the district board by the Government, and on this special appeal your certificate may be withdrawn at once. When so withdrawn you stand precisely as though you had been selected for military service by the local board.

11—Adverse Decisions on Claim.—If your claim is disallowed by the local board your name will be certified and sent by the local board to the district board as one who has been called for military service and not exempted or discharged. Within two days thereafter, if practicable, a list of those so certified to the district board will be given to the press, with a request for publication; will be posted in the offices of the local board accessible to the public view, and notice will be mailed to the public view, and notice will be mailed to the address on your registration card.

Therefore, if you have filed a claim for exemption and proof in support thereof, watch the notices in the office of the local board beginning about five days after you have filed your proof to see what disposition was made of your case and make arrangements for the prompt receipt of mail.

12—How to Claim Appeals to District Boards.—Claims may be made by a person within ten days after the day when notice has been posted and mailed that such person's name has been certified to the district board as one who has been called for service and not exempted or discharged. Therefore if you desire to appeal:

1—Go to the local board and get or copy from 153 or 154 for filing your claim of appeal.

2—Get or copy also form 151 or 152 for notifying the district board of appeal.

3—File your claim of appeal (153 or 154) with the local board.

4—Send your notice of appeal (form 151 or 152) to the district board.

5—Do this within ten days from the day when notice that your name was certified to this district board was posted and mailed.

Remember—You can only appeal the final order of the board exempting or discharging or refusing to exempt or discharge. You cannot appeal other orders or action of the local board.

13—Proving Your Appeal.—You have five days after the district board receives your notice that you have filed a claim of appeal in which to file evidence additional to that filed by you in the local board, but all such evidence must consist of affidavits.

14—Decisions on Appeal.—The decision on your appeal must be made within five days of the closing of proof and you will be notified by mail of the action of the board on your appeal.

15—Claims for Discharge on Industrial Grounds.—Only district board can receive claims for discharge on the ground that you are engaged in industry, including agricultural, foundry to be necessary to the maintenance of the military establishment, the effective operation of the military forces or the maintenance of national interest during the emergency.

Such claims must be filed with the district board on or before the fifth day after the mailing and posting of notice that you have been certified by the local board as one who has been called for service and not exempted or discharged.

2. Fill the form out properly.

3. File it with the district board within five days after the mailing and posting of notice that your name has been certified from the local board to the district board.

See section 44, regulations.

16—Proof in Support of Industrial Claim.—Only affidavits can be used in filing proof before the district board of a claim of exemption on industrial grounds. All such affidavits must be filed within five days after the filing of the claim.

17—Decision of District Board on Industrial Claims.—Within five days after the closing of proof in any industrial claim the district board must decide the claim.

If the decision of the district board is in favor of the claim, the board will issue a certificate of discharge. If the decision is against the claim the district boards will so notify you.

Remember that you have been called for military service and that the certificate of the district board is only conditional on your remaining in the kind of industrial service on account of which you were discharged. No such exemption shall continue when a cause therefore no longer exists, and your certificate of discharge may be withdrawn or modified by the district board at any time that the district board shall determine that the circumstances require it.

18—Appeals of Industrial Claim to the President.—Only decisions of district boards on industrial claims for discharge can be appealed.

If you desire to appeal the decision of the district boards to the President you may do so within seven days of the date of mailing to you of the decision of the district board. To perfect your appeal:

1—Get or copy from the district or local board form 163.

3. Do this within seven days after the mailing of notice to you of the decision of the district board in your case.

19—How You Will be Notified that You Have Been Selected for Military Service.—As soon as your case is finally disposed of, the Adjutant General of your State will notify you by mail that you have been selected for military service.

Your local boards will post a list of all persons selected for military service in a place at the office of the local boards accessible to public view. The local board will also give lists of persons selected for military service to the press with requests for publication.

20—Notice that You Have Been Selected for Military Service Will Not Necessarily Order You into Service.—The notice to report for military service will come when the Government is ready to receive you.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENT.
FOR DIRECTOR OF THE POOR.
SIMON P. MILLER,
Of Mt. Joy Township.

FOR DIRECTOR OF THE POOR.
P. P. EISENHART,
Of East Berlin.

FOR DIRECTOR OF POOR,
A. J. GUISE,
of Butler Township.

Speed the Parting Guest.

T. P. Turner with his gang of workmen have made good time in tearing up the trolley tracks and all along the line have gone the community's best wishes in speeding the parting trolley guest. The thing was out of date, had served its purpose, and the quicker the going the better pleased were our people.

Mr. Turner began on Tuesday of last week at the point where the tracks cross the pike at the Evergreen Cemetery. He jacked up the rails and found few ties, except on Washington street. The tearing up was down Baltimore street, through the Square, the short spur to the W. M. R. R. depot, then down Chambersburg street to Washington, then from the power house out Washington street to Steinwehr avenue and they are now making tracks up and out of town.

The two streaks of rust that had interfered in the full use of the streets were found to be in rather good condition. The rails have been hauled out the Emmitsburg road to point where the Reading railroad crosses that road. The copper wire will be taken down in a few days and the wrecking gang will start at Round Top to take down the copper wire.

The guesses made of the value of the junk would lead one to the conclusion that the trolley was more valuable in its wrecking than at almost any other time of its existence. It is said the rails have been sold and those who ought to know say they are worth as junk from $40 to $45 a ton. A guess has been heard that it will take at least fourteen freight cars to hold the old rails. The capacity of such cars as would be used usually run about 30 tons, so it ought to be worth not less than $30,000 and perhaps near $40,000. Then there may be $8,000 to $10,000 worth of copper and the land is junked to the United States at $30,000, and there remains but few little pieces of wreckage like the brownstone power house. Can it be far wrong that the wreck as a departing guest is worth more than it ever was as a present incumbrance?

The trolley company has paid the $1000 to the Borough of Gettysburg for the repair of the streets torn up by the removal of the rails. The authorities first put down a layer of stone in the torn lines, then this was rolled. The next process will be a leveling of the streets. The work has been interfered with by the rains. When leveled properly a coat of tarvia will next go on and then small stone and the hope is held out that the effort will be to make the streets torn up resemble the first square of West Middle street at the Court House. Now wouldn't that be splendid.

Auto Illustrated Prosperity.

There are nearly 100,000 more cars with pneumatic tires in Pennsylvania than there were a year ago. Last year at this time the auto license fees were $2,116,895. July 17 the amount paid in for licenses was $2,017,493, an increase of over $90,000. The number of licenses issued of all kinds is 49,883 and of this number 29,566 have been for automobiles with pneumatic tires and 13,556 with solid tires.

As to Gregg Monument Bill.

It is said that the bill passed by the Legislature appropriating $15,000 for a monument to the late General D. McM. Gregg, one of the heroes of Gettysburg, is still in the hands of Governor Brumbaugh. It is understood that he is of the opinion that $15,000 will not pay for a monument such as General Gregg deserves, and that he intends to put up to the citizens of Reading the question of raising $10,000 more. It is understood that the monument was to be placed in Reading, but the Governor, it is declared, favors a site on the Gettysburg battlefield, the scene of General Gregg's famous cavalry fight.

A Daring Deed

A Story of the Sea.

By WARREN MILLER

The steamer Tecumseh was moving along at a ten knot gait off Norfolk, Va., when the lookout called:

"Boat ahead on the port bow!"

With his glass the captain swept the quarter of the ocean indicated and saw a cockleshell skiff pulled by a single man. He was alone in the boat and beyond sight of land.

"Put her off three points to westward," said the captain to the helmsman.

The ship was steered in the direction of the man in the boat, and as it drew near him broad stripes revealed themselves on the garments he wore.

"Escaped jailbird!" exclaimed the captain in disgust.

A rope was lowered, and the convict was pulled aboard. He walked aft to where the captain stood waiting for him and said:

"You see by my garb, captain, that I am an escaped prisoner. I broke away last night, made my way to the coast before morning, seized a boat and pulled out where I hoped to be picked up by a passing ship. I must throw myself on your mercy not to put me back where I came from. If you intend doing so I beg you rather to toss me overboard, for I prefer to die rather than return to that horrible life."

"It wouldn't do for me," replied the captain, "to assist a prisoner regularly convicted under the law to obtain his freedom. You may work with the crew while you are on board my ship, but when we reach port I'll have to turn you over to the authorities."

There was a look of agony in the man's eyes as he turned away in company with the mate to take his place among the crew. He was young—not more than twenty-seven—vigorous and refined looking. He had eaten nothing since the day before. Food was given him; but, though he needed it, he had not the heart to eat more than he absolutely required.

Bad weather set in that night from the northeast, blowing a cold blast. The ship was riding obliquely across the waves which dashed up against her bows, now raising skyward and now pointing toward the bottom.

It was about midnight that, while the stern was raised high in the air, an enormous wave struck it with terrific force. There was a sharp report, and the helmsman found that the wheel turned without assistance. Something had happened to free the rudder and render it useless. The ship was at the mercy of the waves.

When the captain, who was on deck, learned of the trouble he blanched. He was not more than thirty miles from the Virginia coast, and with a northeast wind blowing his ship southward it would go ashore by daylight.

While this flashed into his mind the vessel was turning and in a few moments was rolling in the trough of the sea. Orders were issued to get up such sails as would be of service in steering. With the help of these, though the ship steadily lost ground, those aboard of her gained time. Morning came, and there was the shore like a faint cloud resting on the horizon, and with a powerful glass a white line could be seen breaking against it. Some steering gear must be rigged or within a few hours the ship would be breaking up under the waves rolling on that coast.

An investigation was made, and the rudder itself was found to be sound, though the stock was shattered, leaving the huge steel mass, weighing three tons, swinging from side to side with every wave and threatening to stave a hole in the vessel's stern. To save the ship and the lives of those aboard of her it was necessary that the rudder should not only be secured, but that it be again converted into a means of steering the ship.

The captain conceived a plan, but owing to the rolling of the ship did not consider its execution feasible. It was to make fast two chains, one on each side of the stern, to a ring on the outer edge of the rudder. Had the vessel remained on an even keel this ring would have been about four feet under water. As she pitched sometimes it was high in the air, sometimes far down below the surface. At the rudder's rise a man could be lowered on to it in the hope that he might put the chains through the ring, but before he could do so he would be buried many feet in the brine.

The captain lined the crew up on deck, told them of his plan, admitting that several men might be lost in the attempt, and called for volunteers. Half a minute passed before a man moved; then the convict stepped forward and said:

"I'd rather be drowned down there than go back to prison. I'll make an attempt."

"If you succeed," said the captain, "you'll never return to your stripes if I can help you."

One end of a rope was attached to the end of the mizzen boom, the other end being looped under the convict's shoulders. Just before he was lowered he said:

"Tell the world that I, Arnold Turner, convicted of a bank defalcation, about to die, declare my innocence. I know the guilty person, but decline, as I have always declined, to tell."

Turner stood on the gunwale and as the stern rose was quickly lowered with a wire rope and, perching himself on the rudder, endeavored to pass it through the ring. Before he could do so the stern descended, bearing him with it. Necks were craned over the rail to see, when the rudder rose again, if he would still be there. Few believed that he would. But as the stern came up there he was, his knees pressing the vessel's sides, his hands clutching the ring.

A wave swung the rudder to starboard, and the man on it would have been dashed against the side of the ship had he not saved himself by throwing himself on the other side. Before it was swung in the reverse direction down he went again toward the bottom of the ocean. When he came up, holding the ring by one hand, he tried to pass the rope through it, but the rudder was not still long enough for him to do so. He was not only becoming numb with the cold bath, but must be ever watchful to avoid being banged against the side of the vessel, which would, to say the least, have dislodged him.

And so he continued to fight for the lives of the ship or more people slowly drifting toward the breakers, whose distant roar could now be faintly heard above that of the wind. Every time he was carried down he came up with shorter breath and more exhausted. But every time he renewed his attempt to put the rope through the ring of the swaying rudder. Then, when he had failed and gone down again, on rising he let go the ring to rest, swinging, soaked with cold water and pierced by the cold wind.

At last, catching his opportunity when the ship plunged and the stern rose, swinging, with the ring, he grasped at it, caught it and this time passed the rope through it.

Half his work had been done.

Another wire rope was given him, but how could he hope, having lost so much of his strength and benumbed by the cold, to succeed when it had taken so long to attach the first rope? It was a period of terrible suspense for those drawing near those dreadful breakers, whose roar was now every moment growing louder. Again he made his dives; again he clung to the rudder, watching to avoid being dashed against the ship, trying to put the second rope in place.

And so, sometimes swinging at the end of his rope and sometimes taking his cold baths, he kept on trying. The knowledge that lives depended upon his success gave him strength, but whenever he felt that he could not endure another swing in the blast or another dive in the ocean he would think of that life behind bars which was degrading his reason and he would persevere.

At last a feeble call from below announced to those above that the second wire rope had been passed through the ring. To the ends of these ropes those on deck passed heavy chains, which the convict shackled in place, and when this was done he was drawn up.

As he appeared above the tailrail a shout was raised. But he did not hear it. The moment his work was done he fainted. Liquor was poured down his throat, and he was hurried below. There he was stripped of his soaked clothing and put into hot blankets.

While he had been at his work men on deck had lashed a boom across the poop, projecting on each side. The rudder chains were passed through pulley blocks at each end of the beam and around a drum made by boarding over the steering gear. The moment the ends of the chains were attached to the ring the rudder was made serviceable, and the ship was turned from the white line where now, but a mile away, the mad waves were tossing their heads as if disappointed at losing their prey.

When Turner came on deck again he was dressed in a suit of the first mate's clothes, and every one pushed forward to grasp his hand and shower blessings upon him. Each and every person vowed not to betray him, and some suggested means of obtaining a pardon. But Turner told them that he preferred to remain aboard the ship, which, after touching at New York, was to sail for a foreign land. So great was his dread of a return to prison that he determined to lose himself in a country where he would not be known.

Under the improvised steering gear the ship weathered the gale and made her way to Philadelphia, where she put in for repairs, and her passengers, going ashore, took a land route to their different destinations. Before leaving the ship they held a meeting and collected a considerable sum to be paid the man who had saved their lives. But when they came to turn the gift over to him he declined it, saying that he did not need money beyond what he might be supplied with from friends who knew him to be innocent of any crime and who would gladly furnish him with all his necessities.

Turner remained aboard the vessel during her stay at Philadelphia and while she touched at New York. He occupied a cabin of one of the mates, where he kept himself hidden while the ship was in port. Then when her prow was turned seaward he came out and rejoined his fellow crew members as a free man.

Years after the date of escape the vessel which had saved the crime for which Turner had been imprisoned, on a party of a boarding party, owned himself to be a boarding party. Then Turner accepted a pardon.

How the World is Fed.

A study of how the world is fed reveals many interesting facts. Australia, the smallest continent, for instance, is the largest meat center of them all. Asia, largest continent, on the other hand, is the smallest meat center among them. Africa and South America lean toward vegetarianism, while Europe and North America are large consumers of meat and other animal products. Taking the world's supply of cattle, hogs and sheep, writes Harold J. Shepherson in the Millgate Monthly, it appears that mankind at large uses in the neighborhood of 20,000,000 tons of meat a year. This would be an average of about thirty-nine pounds per capita throughout the world. In butchery's meat we find the Australian consumes 192 pounds, the American 172 pounds, the Englishman 119 pounds, the German 113 pounds, the Frenchman and Belgian eighty pounds, the Russian fifty pounds.—Manchester Guardian.

Activity of the Tongue.

Nobody's tongue is still for a moment—at all events, in waking hours. The tongue is the most incessantly active of all the body's members.

We think of the tongue as an organ of speech, but it is also an organ of feeling. When one eats it is constantly feeling about in the mouth and deciding out of his own mind what particles of food are small enough or too big to swallow.

Yes, indeed, the tongue has a mind of its own—a good one or a bad one—that is, it is at all times in regulating the supply of food to the stomach. But for its unceasing guardianship we should suffer much oftener than we do from the distresses of indigestion.

We think of the finger ends as our most sensitive organs of feeling. They are not such at all. The end of the tongue is incomparably more delicate and discriminating.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Inviolable Envelopes.

The ordinary mullage with which the flaps of envelopes are gummed is composed of gum arabic or dextrine and is only too amenable to the persuasiveness of moisture or "steaming" in the hands of the unscrupulous. Persons who wish to guard their pecuniaries, whether emotional or financial, against such pilfering can seal their letters by a method referred to in the Annales des Telegraphes. This consists in applying white of egg to the flap of an ungummed envelope, then before it has time to dry of itself sealing it by passing a hot iron over it. If the temperature of the latter is from 90 degrees to 100 degrees C. the albumen will be coagulated and the two surfaces of the paper will be solidly united and water tight.

Watch For Your Chances.

"Every young man has chances coming his way constantly; it is not a question of having chances, but of recognizing chances when they come," says President Bedford of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. "You sometimes hear a fellow say, 'I had a chance once, but didn't take it.' Never mind the chance that is past; watch out for the next one and qualify to be able to seize it."

"Success that is worth while is, after all, very largely a matter of plain, everyday morality combined with tremendous industry and a deserved reputation for integrity and for fairness toward the other fellow."—B. C. Forbes in Leslie's.

Japan's New Naval Base.

Japan's purchase from Portugal of the little island of Macao, at the mouth of the Canton river, near Hongkong, has given Japan a strong naval base, such as Gibraltar gives to Great Britain and Helgoland gives to Germany. It can be used to menace any European power that tries to thwart the ambitions of Japan in China.

Mint.

Mint occurs only in Matthew xxii, 26, and Luke xi, 42, as one of those herbs the taste of which the Jews were scrupulously exact in paying. The horse mint is common in Syria.

Not Identical.

"Time is money," remarked the proverbialist.

"And yet the man with millions is the one who seldom seems to have five minutes to spare."—Washington Star.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Worry In Sickness.

When an animal is sick it does not worry about it nor about the outcome. Its mental attitude does not hinder nature's healing processes. It goes into the sun, shine, takes the rest cure and stops eating and recovers. But if we have rheumatism in one joint we expect other joints to be affected. We worry about it. It is, of course, well established that the right mental attitude assists in cure, and it is equally important to understand that the wrong mental attitude hinders health restoration. Reason, imagination and will power are big factors in the restoration and maintenance of health. Every one should know the laws of suggestion and apply them in relation to health. Discover what habits of living—exercise, breathing diet, mental habits especially—are conducive to health, live hygienically and expect health, happiness and success. The right mental attitude is vitally important.

Beds For Camping.

"The bed is the most important requisite to a good camping trip. It may be only a pile of leaves, but it must be comfortable." In the Woman's Home Companion we read that folding canvas cots and chairs are carried. "For bedding get two rubber sheets for top and bottom if possible. The best thing is an old imitation leather top from an automobile. Canvas or duck is good if you cannot get rubber. A double comforter makes a very good mattress. When camping several nights get a bale of hay or straw. Take such blankets as you are likely to need and pillows if wanted. For one night camps, unless there are heavy dews, it is often needless to pitch the tent. The rubber sheets protect and give warmth. Use them to roll the bedding in when packing, and spread on the ground to sit on when you eat."

Her Old Glove.

"It is made out of the upper part of a long, white kid glove," the little manure explained when I noticed the case from which she took her tie, scissors and combing wood set. It was a very dainty, a glove made very simply by stitching a glove arm and turning one piece of the kid back on the other. The pockets were made by graduated rows of machine stitching, which made them very like you feel.

"I find this a very convenient little case to carry my pen and when I am called from the room to another or go out to a party, I can take it with me. It is so flat and easy to carry. My wife, you notice, is covered with the white kid. I find it is a very good material for the gloves as it is so soft and like the palm of the hand."—New York Press.

Writing to the Press.

I have sometimes thought that I would write a letter to the paper and sign it Ira H. Hubbard or Henry Stern Wheeler, and in this letter I would exhort the editor and tell him just how the country ought to be run and how little he knew about it.

But you know how you put off these things, so I did not do it for many, many years. Then I sat down and just burned the paper. I added a sarcastic line then, of course they would not dare to print my letter. I know that well enough, and they didn't. It never occurred. Wasn't that a good joke on the paper?—Minneapolis Journal.

The White Man In Africa.

"The footprint of the white man is like the footprint of the elephant," says a Swazi native proverb—"it remains in the ground."

Another proverb: "White men are like and yet unlike quails. When you see one in your country you will soon see a flock. But the quails leave you again, the white men never."
